

Singer/songwriter Adam Hammer is something new wrapped in something unexpectedly familiar. Hammer's blend of original folk, alternative, blues and rock with a dash of alt-country pairs well with coffee, craft beers and whiskey.

Known for his alternative folk style, aggressive fingerpicking and poetic storytelling, Adam Hammer is a singer/songwriter from Central Minnesota. While his roots are in small town Minnesota growing up in a musical family, he sharpened his style through decades of touring, writing and performing with everything from acoustic acts and solo work to rock and punk bands.

He also put in time in Nashville where he honed his fingerpicking style and was given the musical label "tattooed folk" by fellow Music City songwriters.

The musical melting pot that makes up Hammer's influences is what makes his sound unique. He found his place early on in rock and alternative music with a splash of punk rock, but he was raised learning the classics like Hank Williams, The Animals, The Mamas and the Papas and John Denver.

His full-length album "Broken Like You" spent multiple weeks in the College Music Journal top 10 on 88.1 FM KVSC after its release and most recent singles "Almost Always Wrong" and "The Love you Take" are out now for download and streaming with more releases on the way for 2024.
